

THE FREE CONTENT PLANNER

What should we post?

A week of content. Built from the business you already run.

Your camera roll is probably not the problem. Knowing what to do with it is.

Use these seven prompts to choose three posts for the week. You do not need to post all seven, film a documentary, or make your accountant dance.

Before you open the camera

- Pick one audience: who needs to see this?
- Pick one offer: what do you want them to understand or buy?
- Pick one next step: visit, inquire, book, or subscribe.
- Gather three assets: a process clip, a real detail, and a customer question.

FOUR WAYS TO START

There is a post in that.

01 The question you answer every day

OPEN WITH “Before you book [service], ask this.”

SHOW Answer one genuine customer question on camera or in a short carousel. Give the answer in the post.

NEXT STEP Point to the relevant service or booking page.

02 The thing you refuse to cut corners on

OPEN WITH “This would be cheaper. We still won’t do it.”

SHOW One specific standard, ingredient, material, or process. Explain the difference it makes.

NEXT STEP Invite a question about how you work.

03 The part customers never see

OPEN WITH “This happens before we open.”

SHOW Three short clips of preparation. Add captions explaining why each step matters.

NEXT STEP Invite people to see the finished result.

04 The decision you can make easier

OPEN WITH “Choose [A] if ___. Choose [B] if ___.”

SHOW Compare two real options using fit, use, and trade-offs. Keep the sales pitch out of the explanation.

NEXT STEP Link to the options or invite a specific inquiry.

THREE MORE WHEN YOU NEED THEM

Make it recognizably yours.

05 The review with a story behind it

OPEN WITH “They noticed the thing we care most about.”

SHOW An accurate customer review you have permission to reuse, then the detail behind it. Never invent a quote.

NEXT STEP Invite people to read more reviews or learn about the service.

06 The opinion your experience earned

OPEN WITH “We stopped doing [common practice]. Here’s why.”

SHOW Explain a decision you actually made, what you learned, and who it helps. No borrowed outrage required.

NEXT STEP Ask a relevant question or point to a useful resource.

07 The invitation people can act on

OPEN WITH “If you’ve been meaning to [goal], start here.”

SHOW Say who the offer is for, what happens next, and the real price or starting price when appropriate.

NEXT STEP Give one clear booking, inquiry, or visit instruction.

A trend is optional. A point is not.

If a sound or format fits your business, use it. If the joke needs a paragraph of explanation, let someone else have it.

YOUR WEEK, WITHOUT THE SUNDAY SPIRAL

Pick three. Make them count.

AUDIENCE: _____ OFFER: _____

1 / HELP THEM UNDERSTAND

Prompt + opening line: _____

Asset + person responsible: _____

Post date + next step: _____

2 / GIVE THEM A REASON TO TRUST

Prompt + opening line: _____

Asset + person responsible: _____

Post date + next step: _____

3 / INVITE THE NEXT STEP

Prompt + opening line: _____

Asset + person responsible: _____

Post date + next step: _____

Before publishing: check facts, captions, permissions, and the destination link.

After the week: note useful replies, inquiries, and bookings you can attribute.

Views tell you something. They do not tell you everything.

Want someone to take it from here?

FLP social media management starts at $4,000/month. We agree on channels, deliverables, production needs, and the full price before you commit.

Tell us about your business → flpmarketinggroup.com/inquire/